

The 2021 Student Library Commons Writing Contest is accepting essay submissions starting Nov 29th.

Writing contests are a great way to:

- Win prizes, and honourable mention.
- Get your work out into the public sphere, which can make you more competitive in the labour market.
- Submit work that you have written in one of your CMPT courses in the last year.
- Represent computing science, which is usually underrepresented.

In 2020, a member of the CS community received an honourable mention. To access their paper, see <https://journals.lib.sfu.ca/index.php/slc-uwc/index>

For additional information on the writing contest, please see the following websites: <https://www.lib.sfu.ca/about/branches-depts/slc/writing/contest/writing-contest-news-item> and/or <https://journals.lib.sfu.ca/index.php/slc-uwc/contest>